

This slide was triggered at the same time as several others while hiking along a ridge. We were about 800 ft away from this part of the slide. Remotely triggered avalanches like this one are a sign of very unstable conditions. It broke about 1-1.5 ft deep and ran about 1000 ft vertical. Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Lionhead Range

