

This slide was triggered by a cornice that wasn't much heavier than a skier. It broke on a layer of facets 38 cm above the ground (about a foot). This slope was not recently wind loaded and almost faces due north. The slab ranged from 2-4 feet deep but averaged about 3 feet deep. Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Bridger Range
Bridger Range, 2014-01-16