

Located in the northern Bridger Range, this slide likely occurred over the weekend. From an email: "It occurred on an east facing slope, high up and steep, ripped to the ground and slid nearly 2000'... you might be able to make out the crown way above about halfway up the rock face." Photo: M. Cohen

Advisory Region
Bridger Range
Bridger Range, 2015-11-10