

There was 3 feet of snow on this NE facing slope at 9,700'. Unfortunately, it was all faceted. This weak structure will be a problem when the snows arrive, but today it was not. The snowpack does not have much strength: we sank to our crotch when we stepped out of our skis. Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Cooke City
Longitude
-109.95W
Latitude
45.07N
Cooke City, 2015-12-06